GENERAL INFORMATION

Clear explanations of all aspects relevant to your program, registration, documentation process, scholarships, payments, regulations, and internal policies.

1. Program:

Your Gap Year program consists of various stages, each with its own characteristics. Your program includes Medical insurance throughout your stay; likewise, all meals (including some program stages when you are given money on a weekly basis to buy your own food), accommodation, transport, activities, monitoring & supervision by our Program Director, and Coordinators and Counsellors assigned to your Program.

2. Stages:

Opening Seminar

While they're really kef! (fun!), all opening seminar activities are mandatory, of utmost importance to you. You meet, socialize and get to know everyone involved, your fellow participants, coordinators, and counselors. Together, you review the rules of your program, its code of conduct, your personal goals, and what is expected of you during each stage of your program.

Machon Le Madrichim

Based at Kiryat Moriah in Jerusalem, the famous Machon course has trained counselors & young educators from all over the world since the 1940s. Innovative pedagogical techniques convey knowledge & content of Israeli sociology, actuarial, Middle East conflicts, and many other subjects, along with practical exercises to develop your leadership, public speaking, and project planning skills & abilities. Your group travels on many guided study tours & excursions all over Israel, all related to aspects of your course, accompanied & led by the professional teachers of your course. Through this stage, participants will also participate in a Macabiut Seminar in which aspects related to the objectives, values, and identity of our Movement will be discussed.

Also, at this stage, they will volunteer work in some Israeli NGOs, which will allow them to live closely immersed in Israeli society.

Kibbutz Experience

Throughout history, the kibbutz has undergone changes that make it different in many of its characteristics from the kibbutz of the 1950s and 1960s, but the essence and idea of living in a community remain the driving force. of its decisions. Participants will work in all its various sections, such as dining room, stable, agricultural activities, gardening, kindergartens, etc.

Throughout this period there will be weekly meetings with professionals and educators based on leadership, Israeli news, and Jewish identity.

A Madrich and a Coordinator will accompany the stay of the participants in the kibbutz, who will help and guide them based on their needs.

Tel Aviv

Your MDA course is a wonderful opportunity to live in modern Israel's most exciting metropolitan environment, the place every young person wants to experience. You share a Tel Aviv apartment with your flatmates and you are responsible for cleaning, laundry, cooking, and all your other domestic arrangements; you will be given a weekly allowance to cover these expenses. Apartment rentals in Central Tel Aviv are in high demand, so your group will divide into several apartments, but your coordinators will try as much as possible to keep groups of friends together.

Maguen David Adom (MDA)

"MADA" starts with an intensive 60-hour theoretical & practical First Aid course over 10 days, including proficiency tests & graduation exams, followed by actual work as ambulance crew members at MDA stations in cities & localities across the country. If – and only if – you pass the tests & exams, you live in a Tel Aviv apartment, receive a weekly allowance for your domestic & living expenses, interact with volunteers from Israel and other countries, and as to what you experience – there is no such thing as routine day on an Israeli ambulance crew. This is a formative & very real experience, genuine volunteering to benefit the people of Israel. Before MADA you're a kid; after MADA you're an adult. At the end, there's a diploma.

Marvah

National Service in the Israel Defense Forces is a basic rite-of-passage for young Israelis, forging personality, defining patriotism, and personal identity with the State of Israel. We see this stage of your program – a taste of army life – as very relevant, a fundamental aspect of Israeli life. Accompanied & led 24/7 by a team of commanders, Marvah introduces you to military discipline, a little toughness training, obstacle courses, survival techniques, an automatic rifle, and some study of IDF heritage & its Code of Ethics. You will never be exposed to dangerous situations or enter combat zones.

The IDF opens 4 Marvah Courses per year, each with a limited number of participants, and Marvah are solely in charge of admission. Acceptance to Marvah is not automatic but strictly conditioned: Complete your registration on the Internet site; your medical record will be reviewed, and you will be interviewed.

During Marvah, participants have 3 free weekends, and you are free to choose: Stay with relatives, or in Hotels/Hostels, or use a travel-and-maintenance allowance. During those free weekends, MWU is responsible for you.
